My experience

“After completing my Master’s degree in International Business Administration with a specialisation in Finance and International Management at the University of Vienna, I decided to enroll in Banking and Finance to further deepen my knowledge of Finance. This Master programme requires good analytical skills as well as strong time management skills.

For my specialisation, I chose Corporate Finance which consists of several case-study based lectures in cooperation with well-known companies. The focus of my studies was working on business valuations and the subsequent presentation of my results. In my opinion, having these practical experiences can prepare you in the best way possible for your career.”

Barbora Bartova
Student of Banking and Finance

Content and Focus

The aims of the master's programme in Banking and Finance are

- to offer a solid and well-founded education in finance, particularly focusing on asset pricing and financial markets, banking and financial intermediation as well as corporate finance;
- to equip students with the ability to understand finance-related issues in a comprehensive way and analyse them using adequate models and methods;
- to provide students with the necessary skills to deal with data and information systems related to financial markets in a critical, reflexive and also application-oriented way;
- to enable students to adapt and apply their theoretical knowledge when making practical management decisions;
- to prepare students for a PhD programme in Finance.

“This master’s programme addresses the institutional particularities of the financial systems in Continental Europe, such as their strong banking focus. In addition to the necessary analytical, methodological skills and the institutional knowledge, students will be made familiar with the underlying economic mechanisms. Thus, the basis for a professional career will be laid and students will be taught how to manage successfully under ever more rapidly changing regulatory, technical and economic conditions.

The most important qualification for the programme is the personal interest in the topic. Basic knowledge in economic science, mathematics and statistics is also necessary to a certain degree; a prior academic degree in those particular subjects, however, is not necessary. The programme will be held exclusively in English.”

Univ.-Prof. Thomas Gehrig, Ph.D., Professor of Finance

Who can apply?

The master's programme is intended for all students with an aptitude for financial issues. We encourage students with various backgrounds such as business, economics, statistics, mathematics, physics and technical sciences to apply.

Mathematical and statistical ability

A sound background in mathematical and statistical tools is necessary. In particular, students need to have a working knowledge of

- differential calculus for function of one variable and of several variables,
- integral calculus for functions of one variable, and
- methods of optimization under constraints such as the method of Lagrange,
- as well as basics knowledge of linear algebra (vectors, matrix algebra) and
- probability and statistics (random variables, probability distributions).

Knowledge in microeconomics is an advantage.

Professional experience

Candidates are not required to have previous work experience but it would not put them at a disadvantage.

Registration is necessary for all courses with continuous assessment. These are courses of types KU, UK (university courses), SE (seminar), PR (practicum). Note that attendance at these courses is compulsory.

For courses with non-continuous assessment (VO, lectures) registration is not necessary, but recommended in order to get access to the e-learning platform Moodle for this course where material for the lecture may be provided. However, extra registration for the desired examination date via u:space is necessary. Registration for the lecture does not include registration for the exam!

The correct course type can be obtained from the course naming on u:find:

[COURSE-ID] [TYPE] [NAME OF THE COURSE], e.g. 040120 KU Example Course.

You should be familiar with the most important types:

VO: Lecture with separated registration for the exam. No attendance required (but strongly recommended!). Examination purely based on the exam.

KU/UK/VU: Course with integrated examination, no additional registration required. Space is usually limited. Grading involves more components than just an exam. Homework is to be expected.

PR: Course held by a practitioner. Course with integrated examination, similar as KU/UK/VU, no additional registration required.

SE: Seminar dedicated to a specialization. Space is limited. Performance assessment involves more components and might include an exam. If so, no additional registration is required.

	VO	KU/UK/VU/PR	SE
Predetermined exam dates within the course	no	typically yes	possible
Separated registration for the exam required	yes*	no	no
More than one performance assessment	no	yes	yes
Mandatory home assignments	no	to be expected	yes
Mandatory presentation	no	possible	yes
Mandatory attendance	no	yes	yes

* Information about registration periods available on u:find.

Registration periods for courses at the Faculty of Business, Economics and Statistics usually start in the middle of September, for courses in the summer term in the middle of February and end one week before the semester starts (Oct 1st or March 1st).

Master's Thesis

Before you start writing your master's thesis you should successfully pass all the core courses.

It is highly recommended to attend the relevant advanced courses and/or seminars prior to applying for supervision.

When looking for a supervisor, please prepare a proposal which includes

- an introduction and motivation of the topics,
- a first literature review,
- the research question and the methodological approach envisioned to produce answers.

If you intend to include an empirical part knowledge in econometrics is indispensable. Therefore you have to complete the KU Introductory Econometrics before writing the thesis.

For empirical work some prior acquaintance with the data intended for analysis is recommended. The faculty offers access to a wide range of data about asset prices, accounting and management data, macroeconomic statistics and market microstructure data (LOBSTER).

Check the Vienna Data Center (VDC) for availability and data support: <https://vdc.univie.ac.at/>

Please note that confirmation of supervision will only be given if you successfully completed

- the Introductory Module (A.1),
- all Core Courses in Finance 1 (Module A.2),
- the KU Introductory Econometrics, if your thesis contains an empirical part.

The Center for Teaching and Learning organizes “writing mentoring”, in the course of which students trained as peer mentors work with their fellow students on all topics related to academic writing.

Master's Thesis Seminar

The SE Conversatorium for Master Candidates (2 ECTS) is offered every semester.

Students present their master's theses in the presence of the respective supervisor shortly before they have completed their theses.

Note that you should only register for this seminar if you

- are at the end of your studies,
- have successfully passed all the core courses and most of the electives,
- have a well-formed idea for the master's thesis, which you could execute within a short period of time. You may only present when your thesis is in its final phase.
- The presentation should include the following items:
 - research question,
 - literature review,
 - research strategy and preliminary results.

Master's Examination

The master's examination is a public defence. This form of examination consists of a defence and an examination on the academic disciplines related to the master's thesis

Portfolio Management Program

Every year students are selected in a highly competitive interview process to join the two-year Portfolio Management Program (PMP) program which is organised by the Research Institute for Capital Markets (ISK) of the WU Vienna.

The PMP provides students an ideal platform to apply state-of-the art concepts and recent developments from academic and applied research to “real-money” asset management. Thus the PMP is a very innovative teaching concept that enables students to combine theory and practice by not only learning from brilliant academics and practitioners but also by experiencing the real market behaviour. Students also learn how to work with financial data providers (e.g. Bloomberg), how to properly analyse financial data, how to make decisions within groups, how to negotiate prices with counterparties and execute trades and finally how to make presentations in front of critical audiences of their peers, professors and experts.

All groups are required to set up an adequate risk management process as well as develop a suitable documentation and controlling process within the predetermined framework.

In the first-year students become financial analysts that get to know the portfolio and support the second year students, who act as managers and are in charge of the actual asset management process.

Participation in this program will award you 8 ECTS for electives in Modules

- Banking for Business Orientation
- Corporate Finance for Business Orientation
- Banking for Science Orientation
- Corporate Finance for Science Orientation
- Financial Markets (Science Orientation)
- Electives in Finance, Accounting and Economic Law (Business Orientation)
- Electives in Business, Economics and Statistics (Business Orientation)
- Electives (Science Orientation)

Qualified students who are at the beginning of the master’s programme and who who are willing to invest parts of their spare time to experience the world of asset management together with a team of other motivated students are invited to apply for joining the PMP.

To apply for the programme you must send a letter of motivation, CV and transcripts within the application period in September. The official start of the programme is in October.

The University of Vienna

The University of Vienna was founded by Duke Rudolph IV in 1365. It is the oldest university in the German-speaking world and one of the largest in Europe.

In the field of research, the University of Vienna is subdivided into 20 faculties and centres. In 184 degree programmes, the University of Vienna provides an opportunity for its currently approximately 88 900 students to acquire knowledge and methodological core competencies in the course of their studies and in the form of academic work under the supervision of academics.

The University of Vienna is a research university with an international reputation. Studying at the University of Vienna means meeting and cooperating with individuals of different origins, of varied cultural and social backgrounds and experiences.

Faculty of Business, Economics and Statistics

Economics has a long tradition at the University of Vienna. At the end of the 19th century, it was one of the world's leading centres for economic theory. Carl Menger, Friedrich von Wieser and Eugen von Böhm-Bawerk, the founding fathers of the Austrian school, were professors at our University. They taught eminent economists such as Fritz Machlup and Oskar Morgenstern.

Two of the most influential economists of the 20th century, Joseph Schumpeter and Friedrich August von Hayek, earned their doctorate at the University of Vienna.

Today, our faculty is highly international and research-oriented. It comprises the Departments of Business Administration, Business Law, Economics, Economic Sociology, Finance, and Statistics and Operations Research, as well as the Vienna Center for Experimental Economics (VCEE) and a Division of Business Languages.

The core of our faculty consists of about 100 academics. 48 of these are tenured faculty (professors and associate professors) and 51 are non-tenured faculty (assistant professors and post-docs). In addition, we also host third-party funded personnel, junior researchers as well as teaching and research assistants enrich our faculty as well. We teach around 3600 students at the bachelor's level, 2000 at the master's level and about 100 graduate students on their way to earning a doctoral degree, as well as about 1000 students from other faculties of the University.
